

Announcement:

The Board of Dakwakada Development Corporation (DDC), and its shareholder, the Champagne and Aishihik Trust, is pleased to announce that DDC is now a majority shareholder in RAB Energy Group, makers of Northerm Windows and Doors.

DDC acquired its majority position by purchasing the block of shares of RAB Energy owned by Carcross Tagish Management Corp. CTMC made the decision to focus their investment activities in their traditional territory, and want to deploy their resources according to that strategy.

Mr. Brian MacDonald, Chairman of DDC stated, "DDC has been satisfied with the past performance of RAB Energy Group, and was keen to acquire a majority position in this innovative and leading Yukon Company. Their recent introduction of the first 4 pane window, demonstrates RAB Energy's commitment to the North, and products that enhance the lives of Northerners".

Mr. Murray Arsenault, General Manager of DDC stated, "RAB Energy has all of the characteristics DDC looks for in an acquisition. It has a strong and committed management team, solid past performance, and an aggressive yet pragmatic growth strategy. Our existing ownership position in RAB Energy of course provided us with a great deal of comfort in making the purchase."

RAB Energy Group is a Northern-based manufacturer of Windows and Doors, with operations in Yukon, Alaska and British Columbia.

DDC is a privately-held investment firm, located in Whitehorse, Yukon. Its sole shareholder is the Champagne and Aishihik Trust, an organization whose purpose is to hold and manage investment and business assets of the Champagne and Aishihik First Nations, based in Haines Junction, Yukon.
